There has been a lot of talk about Los Berros these days. Of the change in the energy matrix, the hydraulic will, interviews to directors, to benefited and grateful residents for the new water service; however, we have not yet had the testimony of the person who is a very important piece in maintaining this achievement. Irniel Hidalgo Carballosa, the operator of the pumping station there.

"This has been very good, people are satisfied with the new equipment. There is never a lack of water, before it was once a month, now it is every day." Irniel is an affable, simple person with results, but also knowledgeable. "This is a fertile well that has never failed. There is a good water table here, powerful and tasty. You can have it day and night and it doesn't go down." About the change of matrix, Hidalgo Carballosa says that the solar panels do not fail. "Sometimes without having strong or clear sun, just with the glare it works. It's incredible." Irniel Hidalgo Carballosa, the operator of the Los Berros pumping station, is a person who apparently does not stand out for his speech or temperament, but he does stand out with his daily performance of duty. The change of energy matrix dignifies the living of the neighborhood and the operator.
